Emory O. Sonderegger, a 1948 graduate of Wasatch High School and an associate professor of accounting at Brigham Young University for 25 years, was one of two faculty members to receive Exxon Teaching Excellence Awards Thursday.

The awards were presented at a faculty dinner by Dr. Paul Thompson, dean of the School of Management. J. Bonner Ritchie, a professor of organizational behavior, received the other Exxon Award.

A native of Midway, Sonderegger is the son of the late Ernest E. and Grace W. Sonderegger, long-time residents of Midway.

He joined the BYU faculty in 1960 and is a certified public accountant. He has done consulting work for many organizations, including Exxon Company, for which he helped develop a program of continuing education for the accounting staff, and Marriott Corp., for which he evaluated internal control for hotels, flight kitchens, restaurants and amusement parks.

Emory O. Sonderegger

Sonderegger taught accounting for two years at Abadan Institute of Technology in Abadan, Iran, served as an auditor for the U.S. General Accounting Office in Denver for two years and was a cost estimator for General Electric for one year.

He earned bachelor's and master's degrees from BYU in 1956 and 1957 respectively, after serving two years in the Army in Germany and in the U.S. Army Signal Corps from 1953-55.

Sonderegger served a mission to the North Central States for the LDS Church and has held numerous church positions.

He is married to LaRee Morgan and they have three children. They reside in Provo.

city of Cincinnati in 1930, and has done post-graduate work at Columbia University.

On August 30, 1923, he married Grace Dorius, and they have two sons, Don and Carl.

From 1924 to 1930, Dr. Wahlquist was an instructor at the University of Utah and then assistant professor, 1930-31; associate professor, 1935-52, and since 1952 has been president of San Jose State College.

Other educational attainments include director of the William M. Stewart School, U. of U., 1932-41; dean, school of education, 1941-52; director of the summer session, 1941-48; member of the Utah Textbook Commission, 1941-52; president of the Utah Conference on Higher Education, 1946; member of the White House Conference on Rural Education, 1944; special educational commissions in Colorado and California, and from 1957 to 1960 was a member of the executive committee of the Western College Assn.

Dr. Wahlquist served as a member of the Theodore Roosevelt Centennial Commission in 1957, and in 1957-58 was co-director for a study of higher education in Utah.

He is the author of several books relating to education, one of the most popular of which is "Teaching as the Direction of Activities," which has been used extensively throughout the LDS Church.

With his family, he makes his home at 420 South Twelfth Street in San Jose, California.

husband passed away and cared for them until she came home. Now, indeed, it was difficult for her to make a living. She gleaned wheat whenever she could find anyone who would allow her to do so. Many times she walked to Charleston, seven miles distant, to Nymphus Murdock's farm and bound wheat. There was very few men who could keep up with her binding. She also picked hops and sold them to help support her family.

In 1888 she again joined her life to Jonathan Clegg, this time celestially, and lived happily with him in plural marriage for 25 years. She became so aged she was not able to do for him, and her son-in-law, John Clyde, came and with much persuasion she went to live with them at Midway, Wasatch County. They did everything to make her declining years happy and comfortable. She lived and seemed to enjoy it. On May 4, 1900, she died of old age at her daughter's home and was buried in Heber City Cemetery. She lived a faithful Latter-day Saint life and never once regretted leaving all that was near and dear to her to come to Zion. Many times she was heard to say she would not give up her testimony and knowledge of the gospel to be a queen on her throne.

Her eldest son, William Farr, went away

John T. Wahlquist

OGDEN—John T. Wahlquist, prominent educator, died Wednesday, November 28, 1990 in Ogden, at the age of 91. He was born in Heber City, Utah in 1899 to Charles and Elizabeth Campbell Wahlquist. John became a school principal by age 19, and then went on to write over 10 books in the field of education, some of which were used as standard class room text books in over 300 universities. Scholastically, he accomplished a PhD and Phi Beta Kappa. He served as dean of the School of Education at the University of Utah for many years, and then became president of San Jose State University in California. Under his administration, San Jose State University grew from a school of approximately 5,000 students to 25,000 students. He directed the acquisition of eight city blocks, closing down of city streets, and the development and construction of over 20 new buildings. The library building on campus, a few years ago, was named the John T. Wahlquist Library, to honor his contribution to the university.

He was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and served ten years on the Sunday School General Board in Salt Lake City. He wrote the first teacher training book for the church, "Teaching as a Direction of Activities," which was translated into many languages and used all over the world.

He is survived by two sons, Don and Carl; his daughter-in-law, Jennifer; and five grandchildren, Michael, Rebecca, Matthew, Mark, and James. Also surviving is one sister, Mable Wahlquist, of Ogden.

Funeral services will be held in San Jose, California on Monday, December 3, 1990, at the Darling Fisher Chapel, on the corner of Santa Clara and 10th Street, at 11 a.m. A viewing will be held on Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m. He will be buried in the Los Gatos, California Cemetery, next to his wife, Grace, who preceded him in death in January, 1989. Local funeral directors, Undquist's Ogden Mortuary.
